

Obama with Polish and Style.

By Professor David P Rowe, Esq.

Obama has literally thumped Hilary Clinton in the Wisconsin Primary. The result in Wisconsin can only be described as a landslide. Some believe that Mrs. Clinton is finished.

Barack Obama is attracting wealthy, white voters in the heartland of America. Exit polls in Wisconsin show that Obama leads Mrs. Clinton among white men, white women, all Democrats, all unionized workers, upscale workers, downscale workers and white Catholics in that State. Obama did better among wealthier white voters in all Wisconsin counties. Obama has picked up amazing momentum.

The Economist magazine featured Obama on their front cover underscoring the fact that it is never too late for the venerable British to join the Bandwagon.

With two major states left, Ohio and Texas, Mrs. Clinton's back seems to be against the wall. Ohio and Wisconsin appear to be similarly placed politically. Ohio may go to Obama as white voters turn to him for solutions and he sweeps the Black vote. Texas will be a critical primary for Hilary Clinton, literally her last stand.

Obama has very strong student support at the University of Texas and he relates to crowds with style and elegance. Texas seems to be a dead heat at this point, but moving in Obama's direction.

Will the Super Delegates play a role in trying to turn the democratic nomination in Hilary's direction? If this happens, Obama supporters will stay at home in November and Mrs. Clinton stands no chance in being elected President.

This Obama political phenomenon is sweeping the United States. None of the political pundits predicted this.

There are some who believe that Obama will be soft on Iran and he certainly will not go to war there without a very good reason but more Americans are concerned about socialized health care and a system which confronts them with health crises and no financial safety net. Many people are afraid that they will go to a hospital and not be able to pay the Hospital bill. Most Americans want universal health coverage but do not want to be taxed excessively for it. Obama says that he will resolve the health care crisis in America.

Most American families are not interested in fighting in Iraq or Afghanistan and despite the fact that Obama's father was a Moslem and he has family members living in Kenya, Americans are prepared to elect him President of the United States.
